WinSport's ski and snowboard hill scheduled to re-open Saturday at noon

Calgary, Alta. – Relief is on the way from the frigid cold in Calgary and WinSport's Canada Olympic Park will have the cure for cabin fever.

WinSport announced today that it is scheduled to re-open the ski and snowboard hill on Saturday at noon, providing the weather forecast remains on track. The hill typically opens at 9 a.m. on Saturdays, but a later opening is planned to allow for an increase in temperature and decrease in wind chill.

Park visitors are encouraged to visit WinSport's hill report at www.winsport.ca for the latest updates before coming to the park.

The hill has been closed since noon on Monday, when the cold snap first hit the city.
